

PowerLines

Episode 1
5/10/08

Dr. Frederick Gilbert, President and Vice-Chancellor of Lakehead University, talks about his institution's leadership in energy conservation.

Ken Elsey of the Canadian Energy Efficiency Alliance, discusses how appliance codes and standards work for Canadian homeowners.

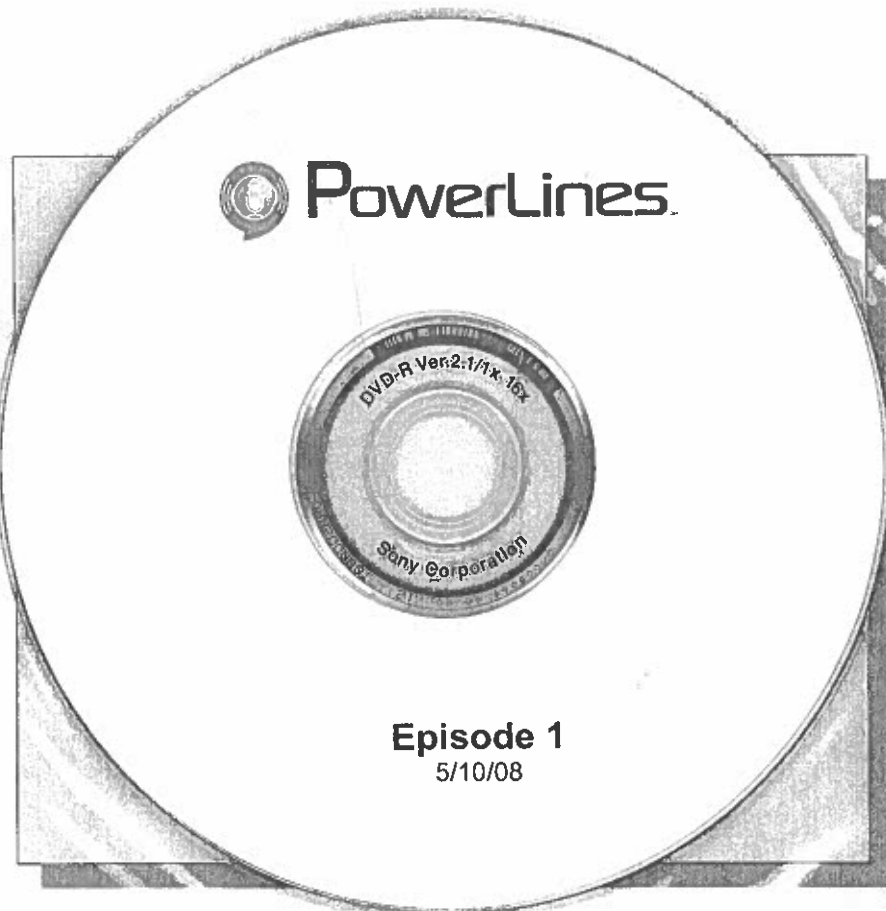

Mike Russill, President and CEO of World Wildlife Fund, talks about Ontario's response to Earth Hour.

Energy efficiency expert, Phil Ridge, talks about how he's turned his home into an energy conservation zone.

Aurora, Ontario Mayor Phyllis Morris, talks about the "Right to Dry" campaign and how it helped make Ontario a clothesline friendly province.

Terry Skiffington, Vice President and General Manager of Tembec's Spruce Falls newsmill operation, talks about their participation in the Demand Response program.

Duane Elverum, Assistant Professor of sustainable systems and green design at the Emily Carr Institute of Art and Design, talks about the Talloires Declaration.

David Marskell from the Waterloo Regional Children's Museum talks about their Energy and Conservation Awareness program and how children are learning about conservation.

Chris Winter, Executive Director of the Conservation Council of Ontario, talks about his work on the Council and his vision for Ontario.

No Photo
Available

Bernie McIntyre, manager of Community Transformation with the Toronto and Region Conservation Authority, discusses the TRCA's Greening Healthcare program.

Paul Grod, President and CEO of Rodan Energy and Metering Solutions, talks about Demand Response in Ontario.

Bea Olivastri, CEO of Friends of the Earth Canada, stops by to talk about saving the earth while saving money.

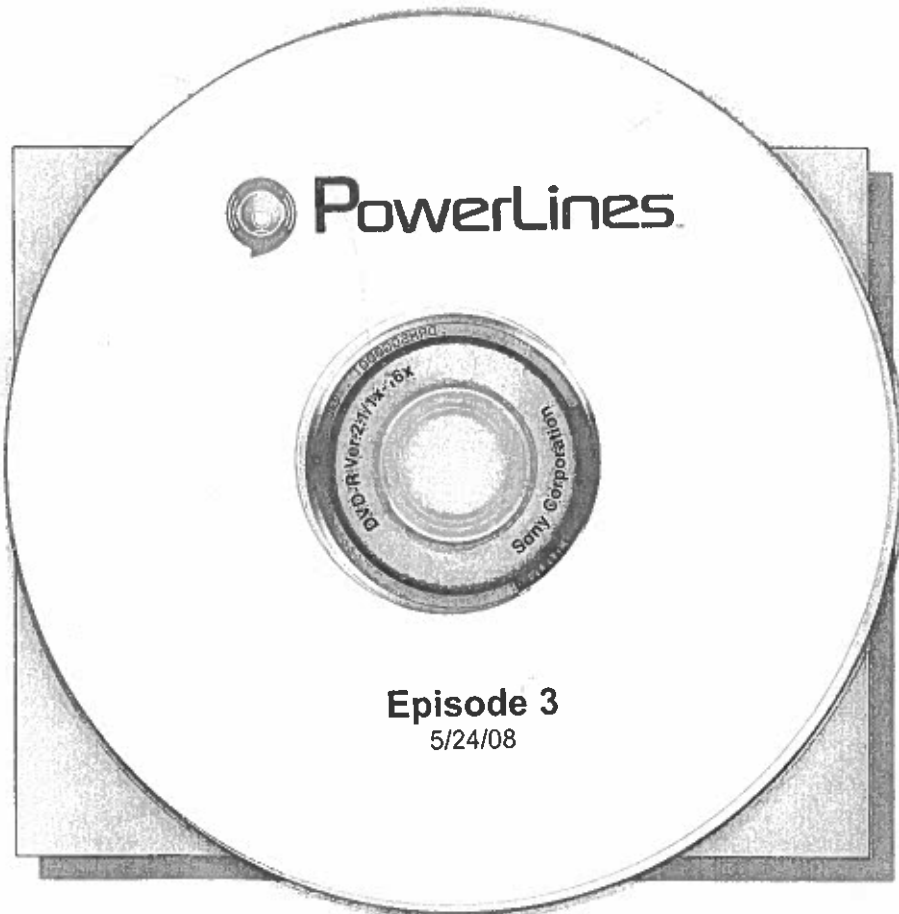

Scott Riesebosch, President and Founder of CRS Electronics, talks about LED lighting technology.

Chuck Stradling, the Executive Vice-President of the Building Owner and Managers Association in Toronto, tells us how the city's large office towers are conserving.

Vladan Veljovic, President and CEO of GreenSaver, talks about energy audits for homeowners and government grants.

GRAND & TOY

No Photo
Available

Shelagh McNally, Online Editor for Green Living Magazine, shares some simple tips on how to save energy around your home.

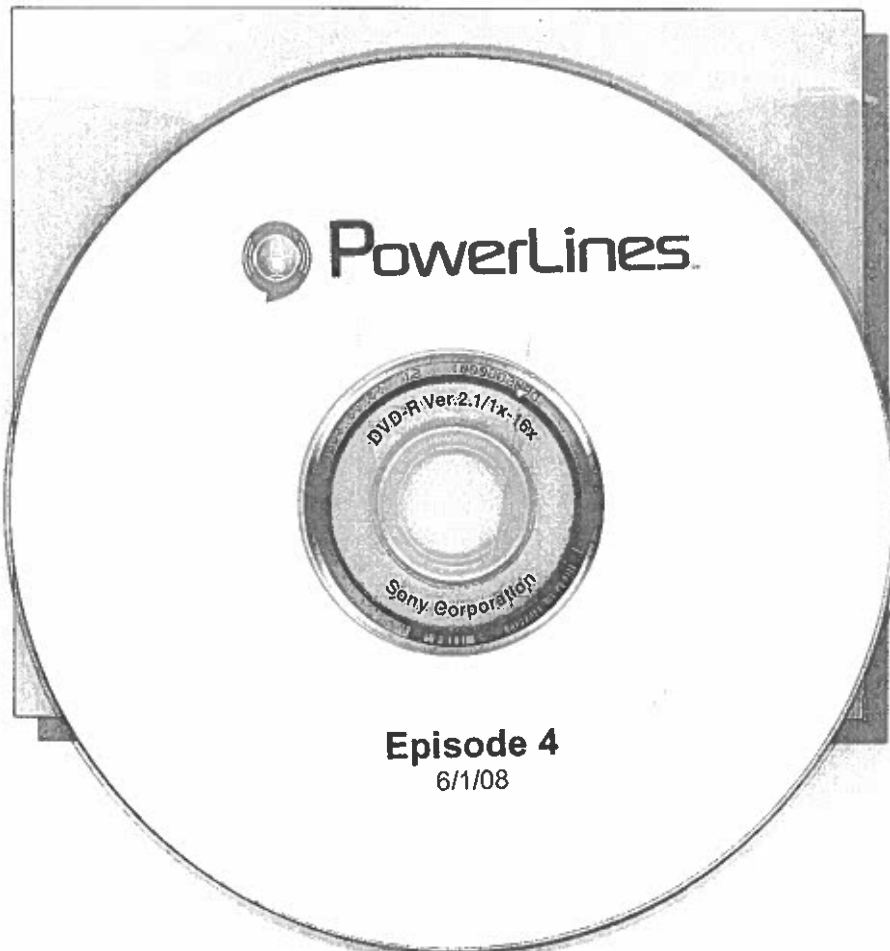

Stuart Hickox, Executive Director, One Change, talks about how simple, small changes can have a major impact on the environment.

Mark Jaccard, Professor of Resource and Environmental Management at Simon Fraser University, talks about his book Hot Air: Canada's Climate Change Challenge.

Heather Davidson-Meyn, Senior Consultant of IndEco Strategic Consulting, tells us about "energy drills" in schools and teaching kids about energy conservation.

Rupp Carriveau, Assistant Professor in the Department of Civil and Environmental Engineering from the University of Windsor, talks about the university's EnergyWise co-op program.

Tom Heintzman, President, Bullfrog Power Inc. joins us to talk about green energy.

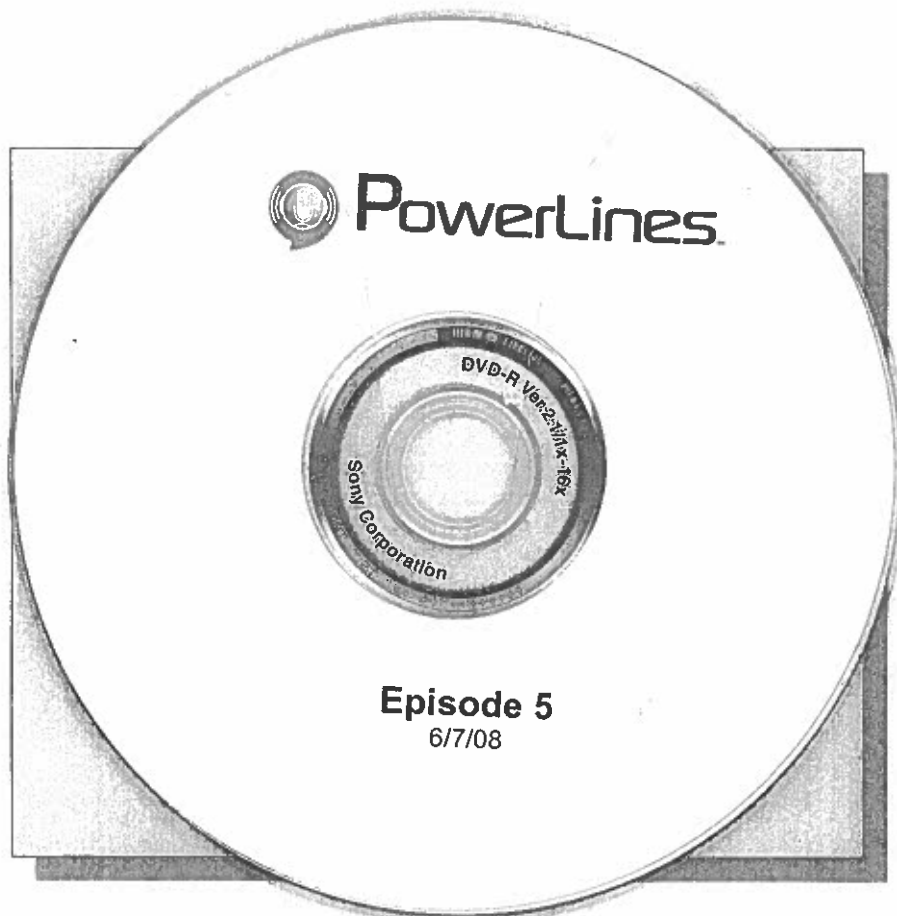

Richard Quail, Municipal Manager at the Drake Landing Solar Community in Okotoks, Alberta drops in to discuss the first community of its kind in North America.

Roger Souckey from Hemlo Mines in Marathon, Ontario, talks about the Hemlo Energy Initiative.

Brian Phillips, owner of Toronto-based World SALON, talks about how his business has reduced its energy consumption by 76% since June 2000.

No Photo
Available

James Douglas, President and Senior Consultant, Util-Assist, joins us to talk about Smart Meters.

Gardening expert Mark Cullen stops by to give us some tips on how to conserve energy in the garden.

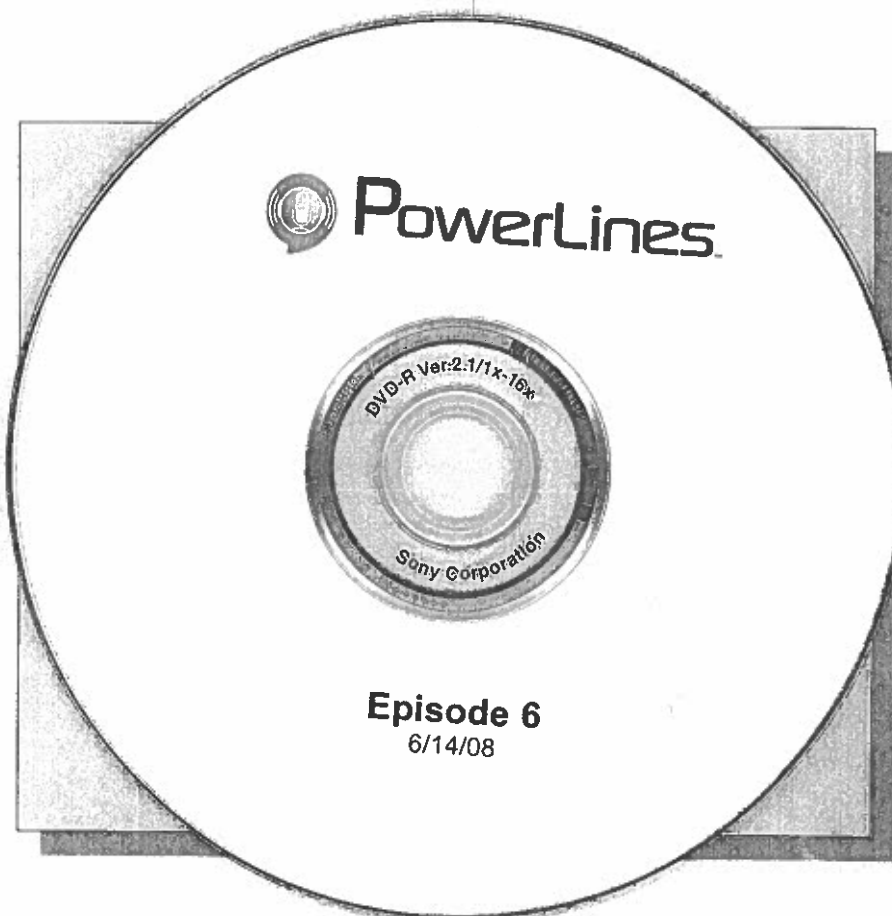

Alex Gill, Executive Director of the Ontario Environment Industry Association, drops by to tell us how energy conservation can play a big part of Ontario's new green economy.

Larry Beasley, Urban Planner and Professor at University of British Columbia, tells us about his involvement in Abu Dhabi's attempt to become the world's first carbon-neutral city.

Mike Rushton, Director of Physical Resources at Algonquin College, talks about his institution's aggressive energy conservation programs.

PowerLines.

Episode 7

6/21/08

Ersilia Serafini, Executive Director of the Clean Air Foundation, tell us how her organization is helping people save energy to benefit the environment.

Ralph Cavanaugh, Co-Director of the Natural Resources Defence Council, shares some key insights from the state of California regarding sustainable energy and energy efficiency.

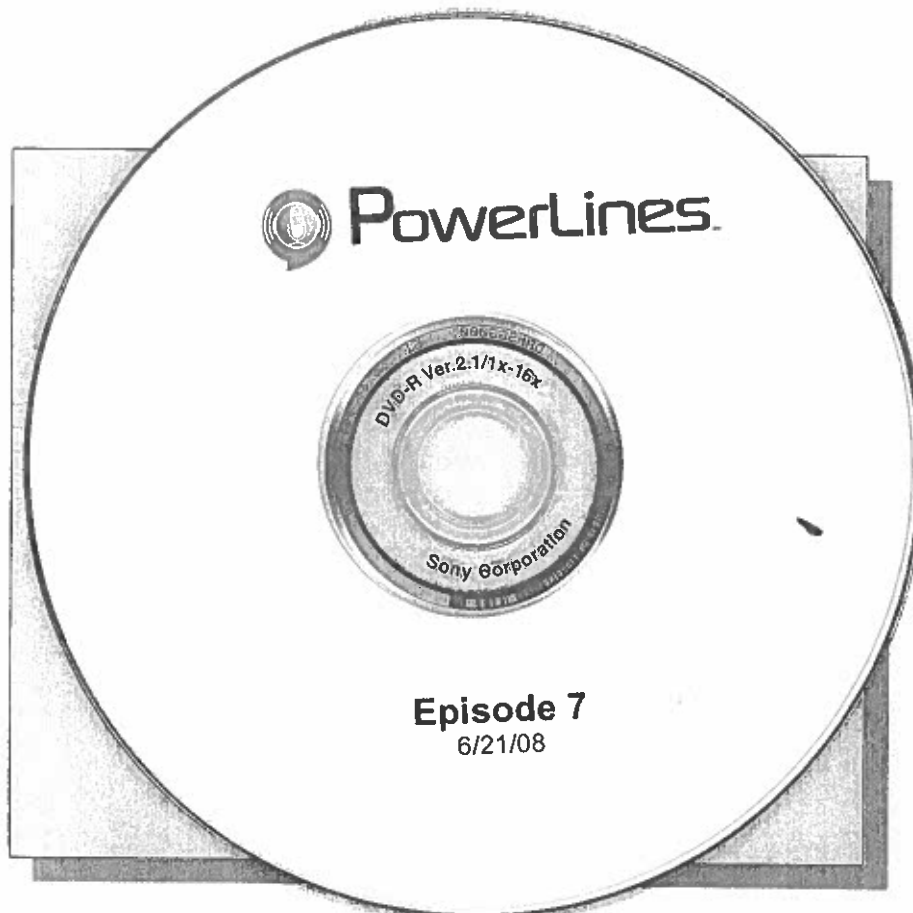

Rev. Dr. Ted Reeve, Executive Director of Faith and the Common Good, tells us how conservation is being adopted in places of worship.

No Photo Available

Karina Richters, Municipal Energy Conservation Officer in Windsor, Ontario, tells us about how she became Windsor's MECO and her future plans for the city.

Chris Chopik, Green Realtor and Director of Evolution Green, shares tips on how people can increase the value of their home while also helping conserve energy.

Gill Deacon shares some tips from her new book Green For Life: 175 Eco-Ideas for Everyday.

No Photo
Available

Toronto Zoo's Conservation Programs Curator, Dave Ireland, joins us to talk about the Toronto Zoo's Green Plan.

Aaron Hay, Research Consultant with Info-Tech Research Group, talks about how we can reduce our computers' energy consumption.

Chantal Brundage, Program Manager for GreenTbiz, joins us to talk about Business Improvement Areas (BIA) in Ontario and their new initiative GreenTbiz.

Laura Formusa, President of Hydro One, talks to us about Smart Grids and their future in Ontario.

 PowerLines.*Episode 8
6/28/08

Liann Bobechko, Associate Editor of Cottage Life Magazine, joins us to talk about how to conserve energy at the cottage.

Steve Peck, Green Roofs for Healthy Cities, joins us to talk about green roofs.

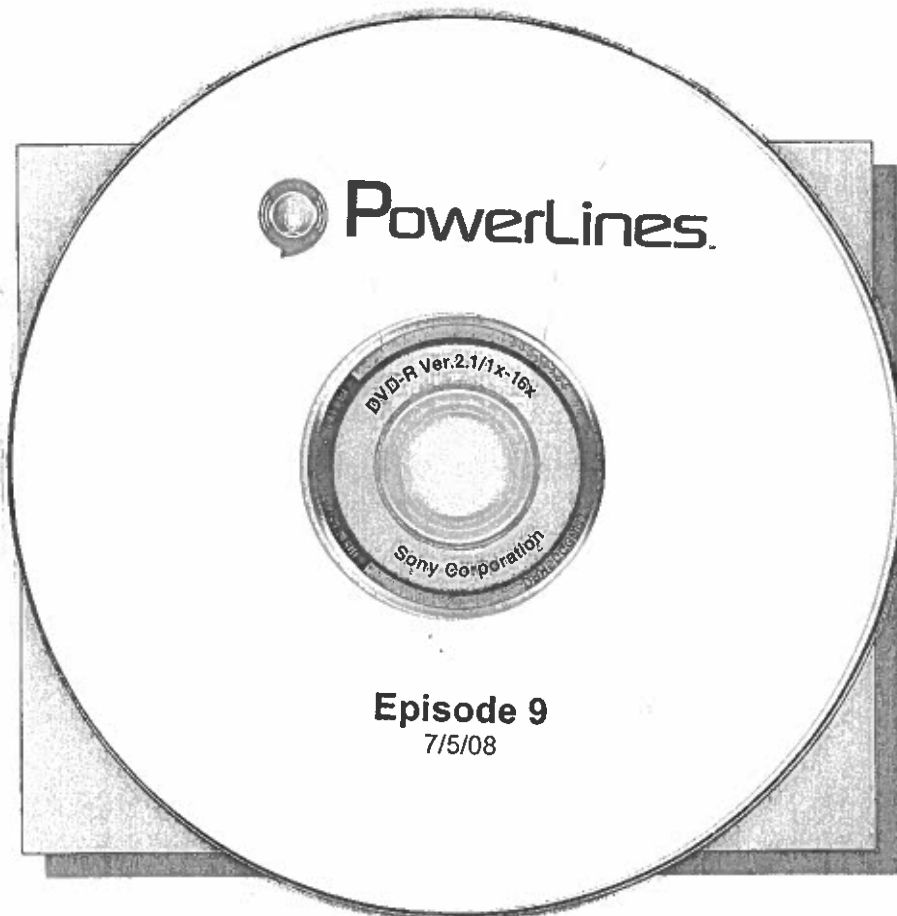

Richard Bradley, Head of the Energy Efficiency and Environment Division of the International Energy Agency, talks about the role of the International Energy Agency.

Jamie James, Environmental Consultant to Tridel and Partner with Windmill Development Group, tells us about LEED Platinum Communities.

Maryam Mansouri, Vice President of Liza Communities, joins us to talk about the growing demand for Energy Star rated homes.

Mark Salerno, District Manager, CMHC, joins us to talk about the Canúhome exhibit.

Jon Eakes, Home Reno and Energy Efficiency Expert, joins us to share tips on energy-efficient renovations.

No Photo
Available

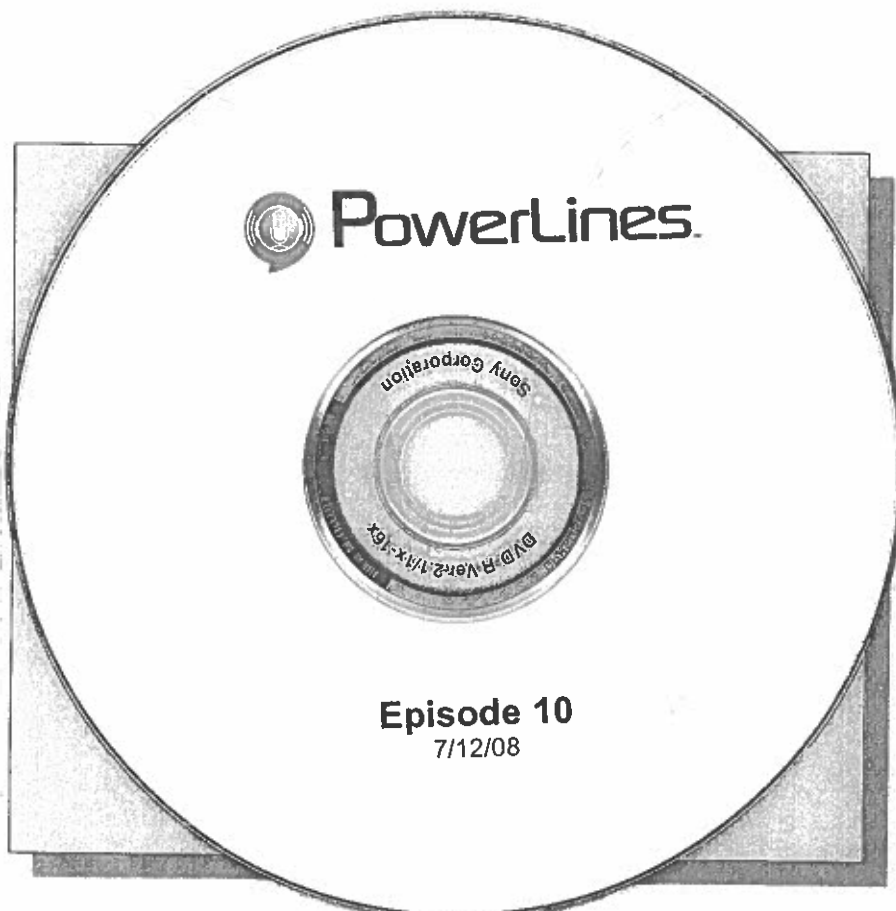

Terry Petkau, Director of Special Projects with Habitat for Humanity Canada, tells us how energy efficiency is changing the way Habitat for Humanity helps its homeowners.

No Photo
Available

Rami Belson, Energex Inc., tells us about how his company is helping hotel owners across Canada combat energy-wasting vacationers.

Kateri Callahan, Executive Director of Alliance To Save Energy, joins us to tell us more about her organization's role.

Black and Decker's Robert Crnkovic tells us about their new product called the Power Monitor, which is used to monitor the energy consumption in your home.

TV's Survivorman, Les Stroud, is here to tell us how he and his family are planning on living off the grid.

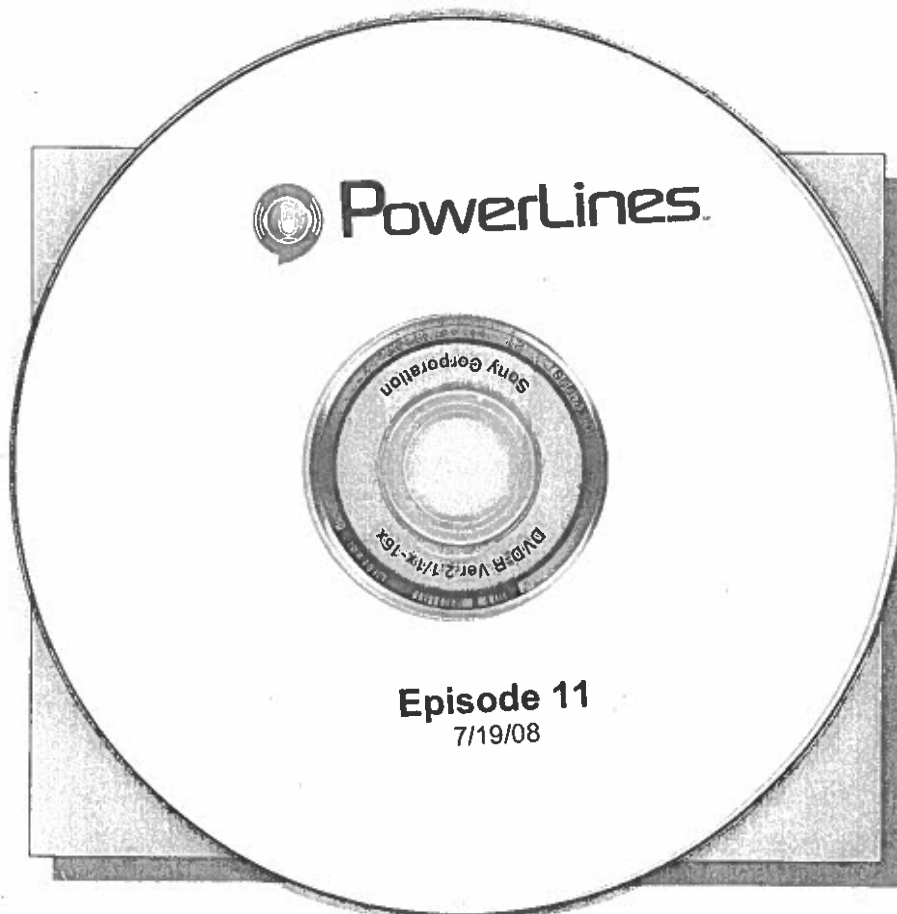

Simon Smith, Deputy Director General, Climate Change and Environment, joins us from New South Wales, Australia to tell us about energy conservation in his country.

Terry Young of the Independent Electricity System Operator, is here to talk to us about what IESO does in the province of Ontario.

President of Enbridge Gas Distribution, Janet Holder, discusses what energy conservation means to Enbridge.

Actor and green activist Ed Begley Jr. joins us from Los Angeles to tell us all about his commitment to energy conservation and the environment.

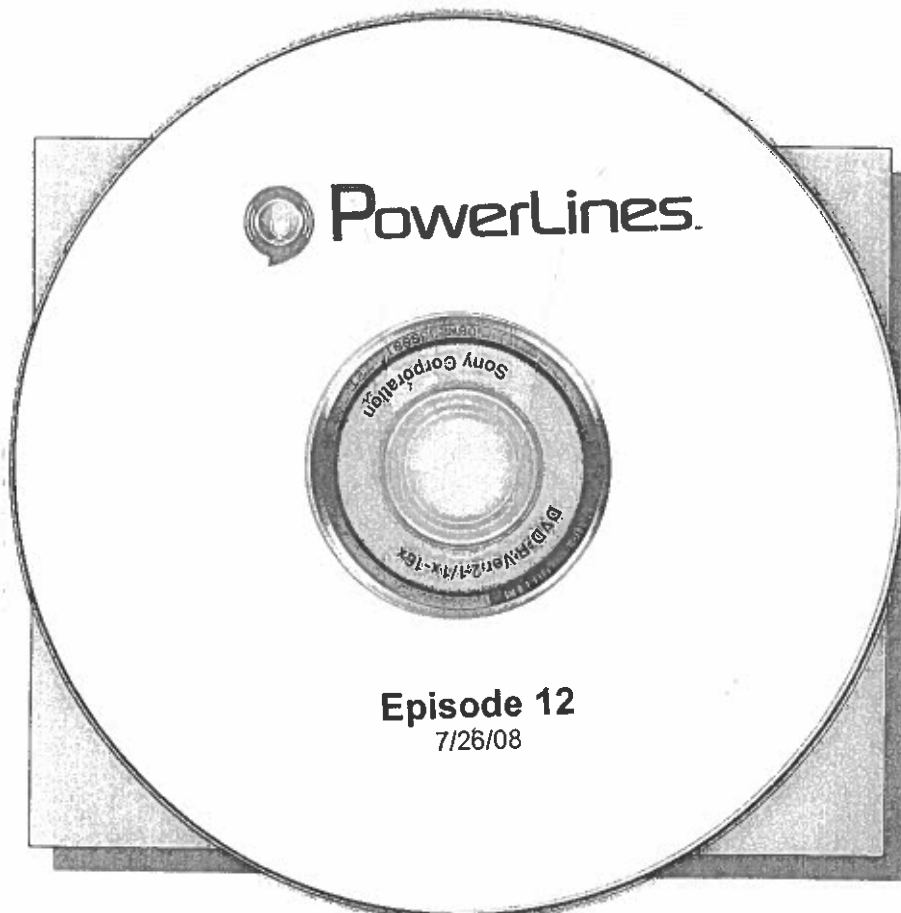

Dr. Kirsty Duncan from the University of Toronto discusses the link between energy conservation, the environment and our health.

No Photo
Available

Harry Banham, inventor of the eCube, joins us from the U.K. to tell us how his revolutionary invention is helping to save electricity across the U.K.

No Photo
Available

Steve Koch from the North American Insulation Manufacturers Association discusses the link between insulation and energy efficiency.

To wrap up season two, Peter and Liza revisit some standout interviews that reflect the "Think. Believe. Act" theme that is at the heart of working towards a "culture of conservation" in Ontario. Here are some guests who demonstrate the value of thinking, believing and acting:

Stuart Hickox, Executive Director, One Change, talks about how simple, small changes can have a major impact on the environment. (Episode 4 - June 1, 2008)

Tom Heintzman, President, Bullfrog Power Inc. talked about rise of green energy. (Episode 5 - June 7, 2008)

Brian Phillips, owner of Toronto-based World SALON, talked about how his business has reduced its energy consumption by 76 percent since June 2000. (Episode 5 - June 7, 2008)

Actor and green activist Ed Begley Jr. joined us from Los Angeles to tell us all about his commitment to energy conservation and the environment. (Episode 12 - July 26, 2008)

Chris Chopik, Green Realtor and Director of Evolution Green, shares tips on how people can increase the value of their home while also helping conserve energy. (Episode 7 - June 2008)

